

Fahzies Hand Warmers and Muffs for Children Announces Its New Product and Website Launch

Fahzies hand warmers and muffs are made from polar fleece and faux fur in styles for girls and boys. Perfect for running errands, Fahzies help keep little hands from getting chapped in the cold winter air. Unlike gloves and mittens, hand warmers are hard to lose and easy for kids to use.

January 14, 2006 (FPRC) -- After having selling success on eBay, Fahzies launched an independent website for sales of hand warmers and muffs for children. Fahzies is a home-based business started by Minneapolis mother-of-two Nicole Lindberg. To date, children in Minnesota, as well as Idaho, Illinois, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Massachusetts, Ohio, Washington and even Texas, are wearing Fahzies.

Encouraged by the comments and compliments Nicole's girls received when wearing their hand warmers, she decided it was time to create a line of affordable muffs that could be purchased separately from a coat and that could be machine washed — something she was not able to find anywhere else.

Perfect for running errands, Fahzies muffs help keep little hands from getting chapped in the cold winter air. Unlike gloves and mittens, hand warmers are hard to lose and easy for kids to use.

Currently Fahzies come in over a dozen different styles for girls and two quarterback-style hand warmers for boys. They sell for $12.95 for polar fleece and $15.95 for faux fur. All polar fleece muffs are machine washable and come in a variety of fun colors and patterns. The classic black faux fur muff requires surface or dry cleaning, and has been a best seller, especially for the holidays.

Fahzies hand warmers and muffs are a unique way for kids to protect their hands while running errands with the family. Although only available online at this time, Nicole is hopeful that Fahzies will be available at other retail outlets soon.
