

Hot on the heels of the Su Doku success comes Ka Kuro Classic for PC CD-ROM from greenstreet

Hot on the heels of the massive Su Doku phenomenon is the latest Japanese brainteaser to set the nations imaginations on fire – Kakuro. Set to be the next big thing, with simple rules yet challenging puzzles many say that Kakuro is even more addictive than Su Doku.

January 15, 2006 (FPRC) -- You don't have to be a mathematical genius to play, however kakuro does require a blend of logic, strategy and a keen mind to solve the myriad of mathematical combinations that each new puzzle creates. It's just like a crossword – but with numbers!

Following on from their hugely successful range of Su Doku PC CD ROM software, Greenstreet are releasing Ka Kuro Classic - Shipping from 5th January 2006 with an RRP of £9.99, Ka Kuro Classic provides users with a lifetimes worth of Kakuro puzzles on one CD. With clear instructions on how to play and tips on mastering Kakuro, Ka Kuro Classic is suitable for all levels of ability. Its easy to play - simply drag and drop, with unlimited undo, pencil marks, hint buttons - there's even a combination calculator which displays possible solutions should you get really stuck! Puzzles can be paused, saved and restarted, emailed to family and friends, plus you can print & go – ideal for commuting, holidays or simply relaxing in your favourite chair.

“Ka Kuro will be even more challenging than Su Doku”, said Jeff Fenton, CEO at Greenstreet, “and should appeal even more to dedicated puzzle fans. We have made sure our version generates really playable puzzles from the easy to the fiendish.”
