

700 Business Professionals Have Chosen To Receive Sales Leads From TradePals

Today, the 700th business professional has created a profile on the TradePals business network to receive sales leads. The TradePals team is excited because this is a milestone. After months of hard work the team has finally started to see momentum in natural growth of the TradePals website.

January 19, 2006 (FPRC) -- James is a mortgage banker from Glen Ellyn, Illinois. He works hard for his income and uses everything at his disposal to generate more income for himself. What is special about James is that he is the 700th business professional to create a profile on the TradePals business network to receive qualified sales leads without cold calling.

The TradePals team would like to announce this because 700 profiles is a big milestone. The TradePals website launched in April, 2005 and required a lot of work to get up and running. 700 is special because it represents the point that is a shift from having to heavily promote the website to starting to see natural growth at an accelerating rate.

Business professionals, entrepreneurs, sales reps, trades people, and freelancers that don't want to spend all their time cold calling and prospecting for new business are beginning to realize how easy it is to receive sales leads from TradePals. It's free to create a professional profile and is not time consuming like the mainstream business networking websites are.

All that is required with TradePals is a few minutes to create a profile and that's it. After that, you will receive an email notifying you of any potential clients or prospects that want to do business with you. So there is no need to constantly check back.

Advertising your services has never been easier or more economical for business professionals as it is today, thanks to TradePals.
