July 4, 2006 (FPRC) -- BibleBase.com, a one-stop resource for Bible teaching has launched a new blog along with a re-styled home page.

The Bible Base is a one-stop teaching resource for Bible students of all ages and degrees of knowledge and is hosted by Ron Bailey.

Now there is a new blog, powered by blogger.com, which documents the development of the site.

Ron Bailey said, "We are setting up the site with plans for a much more comprehensive provision of Bible study preaching, teaching and general helps, including on online Bible School. Some of the links do not yet lead anywhere but be patient and all will be revealed."

In site includes the popular new covenant workshop which is intended as a public teaching resource with the New Covenant of Jesus Christ as its focus.

There are also free MP3 sermon files and studies in PDF format. Including sermons and studies by Ron Bailey, Dai Patterson, Les Wheeldon, Blaesius Fultang from Africa, Norman Meeten and G W North.

Talking about his webmaster Ron said, "The man from the boiler room has surfaced and the result is a home website with a completely different look and feel to it. He is the man who keeps the whole ship afloat. From time to time we have a chance to do some in depth thinking and planning on the bridge and the new style site is the result."
