

Commercial Real Estate Financing and Commercial Loan Course Revised by AEX Commercial Financing

AEX Commercial Financing Group has revised the AEX Seven-Part Commercial Mortgage Course which is available free of charge to online subscribers. The AEX Course is a respected source of commercial real estate financing advice regarding purchase, refinancing and construction of commercial properties. New topics covered include commercial lenders to avoid and commercial loan retainer fees.

May 29, 2007 (FPRC) -- AEX Commercial Financing Group today announced that it has updated the widely-used AEX Seven-Part Commercial Mortgage Course. The AEX Commercial Real Estate Financing Course provides observations and advice that will be helpful to commercial mortgage loan borrowers throughout the United States. The AEX Business Financing Course is available to online subscribers free of charge.

According to Stephen Bush, Founder and Chief Executive Officer for AEX Commercial Financing Group, "If you have previously experienced problems with commercial real estate financing (or don't want to delay your next commercial mortgage with avoidable problems), our unique and straightforward commercial loan advice can help you immediately. The AEX course will especially benefit business owners who need new financing, refinancing or construction for commercial properties ranging from $200,000 to $25 million."

The first three parts of the free AEX Seven-Part Commercial Mortgage Course discuss the top 12 problems to avoid with a commercial mortgage, stated income commercial loan benefits and the two worst things that could happen with commercial real estate financing. Newly-added topics include commercial loan retainer fees and commercial lenders to avoid.

AEX Commercial Financing Group specializes in difficult commercial loans and provides business financing for special purpose commercial properties including golf courses, funeral homes and churches throughout the United States. AEX can arrange immediate business cash advance assistance for most retail and service businesses. AEX Commercial Financing does not require tax returns, financial statements, collateral or business plans for many stated income commercial loan situations. AEX Commercial Financing Group also publishes The AEX Commercial Real Estate Loan Guide, a free series of special commercial loan reports, a business cash advance executive summary and The AEX Working Capital Management Guide.
