

Phone Introduction Service Helps to Move Relationship on a Higher Level.

Anastasia International, the leading introducing and Romance Tour Company for Russia and CIS investigated that Phone Introduction Service greatly improves the relationship between men and women.

June 28, 2007 (FPRC) -- In order to find out whether phone conversations contribute to the relationship between its customers, Anastasia International conducted an 8-question survey.

Over 700 Anastasia International customers took part in the unsolicited survey. The respondents of the survey were asked "What do you think: do phone conversations contribute to your relationship with the lady?" 77.24% reported that phone conversations with Russian and Ukrainian women boost their relationship to a higher level.

Also, Anastasia International checked the customers' satisfaction level from using Phone Translation services. According to the survey, 90 percent of customers are satisfied with the work of Anastasia International phone operators. 86 % are satisfied with AnastasiaInternational.com Phone Translation service.

"Statistical information that we got by this survey shows the importance of our Phone Introduction service and encourages us to continue improving this effective tool in developing relationships of our customers and their ladies", said Elena Sykes, CEO of Anastasia International. She continued. "We would like to thank all the customers, who took part in this public opinion poll, for their co-operation in this matter and for their important observations and valuable suggestions. We are also very grateful to all the customers of Anastasia International for using our Phone Introduction service. Please be assured that, from our side, we are making all possible efforts to constantly improve this service".

CONCLUSION: The survey ensured that Anastasia International gathered the information of high importance, which shows that Phone Introduction Service use is an important and necessary part of introduction and communication between people on long distances.
