

SEO Elite Defrauds Novice Marketers

SEO Elite takes advantage of newbies encouraging them to purchase a program that can harm their search rankings and wastes their internet advertising dollars.

September 5, 2007 (FPRC) -- SEO Elite scams marketing newbies on a daily basis and nobody has done anything about it until now. Agilis Marketing is launching a campaign to prevent this and other forms of deceptive internet advertising and seo techniques by educating the public.

Google specifically prohibits the use of automated programs such as SEO Elite. Still this company and others similar to it continue to hype the value of their software to novice internet marketers. The results are disastrous and sometimes irreversible.

Wasted money, time, and a site that Google might decide to ban all because a rookie feel victim to the SEO elite scam. The claim is that search engine marketing is easy and top 10 results are obtainable with the purchase of a simple software program. The end result could not be further from the truth. There are horror stories of sites that completely vanish from Google, Yahoo, and MSN as a result of using such automated programs.

Help support our campaign to help new internet advertisers aware of such schemes by sharing this press release and details with a friend. Together we can stop companies similar to SEO Elite from taking advantage of the public.

Agilis Marketing is a professional SEM company focused on improving the reputation of the industry and ROI for our clients. For further questions please contact us using the details below.

Agilis Marketing
<http://www.agilismarketing.com>
(757) 274-5345
info@agilismarketing.com

Contact Information

For more information contact Brent Yorzinski of Agilis Search Engine Marketing
(<http://www.agilismarketing.com/>)
(757) 274-5345

Keywords

seo elite
internet marketing
internet advertising

You can read this press release online here