

Phil Brown Tells You the Internet Truth

Sue Garcia, former Chief Editor of a Major Metropolitan Newspaper says, "Phillip Brown's information and products are aimed at helping home based business operators and newbie's succeed on the Internet using ethical techniques and advice".

October 25, 2007 (FPRC) -- Internet marketer, coach and mentor, Phil Brown is excited to announce that he and his business Watch Dog Reports are endorsing a new marketing system known as the 'Perfect Wealth Formula' that has shown very successful results when implemented, and shows even more success when used in addition to Phil's coaching and mentoring.

This new system carries out all prospecting and sorting in an online environment, which in a big way places incoming funds on auto-pilot, resulting in a faster monetary return. It is through Phil's own experiences with low-paying affiliate programs and the various scams that exist on the internet that encouraged him to endorse this marketing system to ensure those who use it do not encounter monetary losses, but achieve the opposite. It is when incorporating Phil's mentoring and coaching with this program that the results have shown to be more promising than if the client had never engaged Phil's services at all. His experience in guiding clients through processes involved in internet marketing has made the experience less scary and easier to follow.

It is also through Phil's belief of being honest about the money-making realities on the internet that has shown him success in his ten plus years of doing business on the World Wide Web. Because of what he has learned through his own experiences, he has made it a commitment to help others become as successful as possible just as he has in using the Perfect Wealth Formula. The formula and his mentoring and coaching skills together have provided much success for many people who have sought out his services.

One such success story who holds Phil in high regard is Sue Garcia, former Chief Editor of a Major Metropolitan Newspaper. She says, "Phillip Brown's information and products are aimed at helping home based business operators and newbie's succeed on the Internet using ethical techniques and advice," She further states, "The great thing about Phil's advice is that it's crystal-clear that he's walking the walk as well as talking the talk."

Phil is not telling his clients that they are going to become rich overnight. He is simply going to tell the truth about the online business and the many realities that come with it. Yet it is through Phil's knowledge that clients receive the necessary tools to deal with those realities in the road to success.
