Ashley, OH, July 29, 2007 --(PR.com)-- Traditional country great J. K. Coltrain host of the popular Country Caravan has announced the release of his latest CD on Colt Records. The new CD is entitled 'Tumbleweed In Times Square'. JK stated that he is really excited about his latest effort and hopes his fans around The World will agree.

This follows JK's 2006 release of The Truck Stops Here which has remained active on the charts for the entire 42 weeks following its release. His single Walking Through Tomorrow is still shown high on numerous charts and currently sits at #9 on The International Country Music Chart.

J. K. Coltrains career made a giant comeback in 2006 and marks the first time that his songs have charted since early 1991. JK states that the reason for his rebirth was twofold. One true country music is starting to become popular once again as many folks have grown weary of hearing the pop country stuff and secondly because he has rededicated himself to devoting all his efforts into putting out real country music.
