Sexy Debs Controversial Wolf Whistle Song Coincides With Ban, Saucy Music Video On The Cards.

Deborah Andries Makes An Impact

April 14, 2008 (FPRC) -- Former Sky Granada Men and Motors star Debs has released a song called 'Wolf Whistle' on the eve of George Wimpey's ban in Bristol. Builders were shown the red card to deter them from practising the age-old tradition of the wolf whistle in case it put off potential buyers.

The ban stunned Debs and threw promotional efforts into a different direction overnight. The words of the song had already caused a mixed public reaction with claims that it actually glorified wolf whistling 'I thought it was an April fools joke when I first read about the ban in a National Newspaper' said Debs 'Most of the women I know love the attention and it's a bit of fun'

Debs recently posed for a publicity shoot in London with builders giving her the thumbs up to save the wolf whistle from extinction. 'I really don't know how to take the remark made about ladies being too sophisticated to accept a wolf whistle' laughed Deborah 'I regard my self very sophisticated in the way I dress and my conduct, because I condone the wolf whistle doesn't make me less so'

A video is planned for the track in the summer complete with wolf whistling builders and dancers, so far there's no indication that's going to change. Trendy Records are hoping that a building firm may come forward to support Debs concerning a location.
