

Franken Food Boycott Mothers Day Weekend

Mom says it's time to take a stand for your family's health and say NO to "franken foods."

May 5, 2008 (FPRC) -- Franken Foods is a term that is used to describe lab created foods made of chemical compounds and very little actual food. Many point to the mass consumption of these fake foods as the cause of the obesity epidemic and the astronomical rise in heart disease, type II diabetes, cancer, and a growing list of diseases and disorders.

And it that wasn't bad enough already, even if you think you're eating a healthy diet – you might unknowingly be eating genetically modified foods. They're right there in your local produce department nestled in between the real fruits and vegetables. Unless you know the secret code, you wouldn't know the difference. (Look for 5 numbers starting with the number 8 on your produce sticker.)

"I was horrified to find out that even healthy food is being chemically modified at the seed level", said Carole Pagan, owner of CommonSenseLiving.com. "If we continue to turn a blind eye, there won't be a safe food available on the planet."

Carole says the time to take action is now – before its too late. She is asking you to not buy or serve any Franken Foods over Mothers Day weekend. No packaged, processed, or modified foods. Serve only fresh real foods.

"Remember, you cast your vote every time you buy one of these products."

You can find information on the Franken Foods Mothers Day Boycott, related articles, and show your support at <http://CommonSenseLiving.com>

Contact Information

For more information contact Carole of Common Sense Living (<http://CommonSenseLiving.com>)
847-265-8727

Keywords

Franken Food Boycott

You can read this press release online here