July 5, 2008 (FPRC) -- ADDISON, TX - Triple Diamond Energy Corporation (TDEC), an oil and gas drilling company based in Texas, recently struck oil and natural gas at the McClure Diamond Well #3 located in Garvin County, Oklahoma. When the well was opened, it produced at a flow rate of as much as 300-500 MCF with a half-inch choke. As fluid in the well began to build, a crew was brought in to swab the well to unload the fluid. The fluid was 100% oil and was being swabbed at a rate of 98 barrels of oil a day.

The McClure Diamond Well #3 is the third in a four well step-out drilling program at the southeastern extension of the Hoover field. Now that they have struck oil, Triple Diamond Energy Corp. will begin the process of completing and equipping the well so that the oil can be extracted and transported. It will then be processed into various types of consumer fuel.

“With the production of the McClure Diamond Well #3, we have solidified this project’s anticipated return to investors,” said Chris Jent, Chief Marketing Officer of Triple Diamond Energy Corp (<http://www.triplediamondenergy.com>).

Oklahoma is one of the top natural gas producing states in the nation. Many of the largest oil and gas fields in the country are also found in the shelves and platforms of the various geologic basins of the state. This makes Oklahoma one of the major oil and gas exploration states in the country with annual production typically accounting for more than 3 percent of total U.S. production in recent years.
