Dr. Penick Phillips-Cermak tackles writing, women's accomplishments and, book promotion in this revealing interview.

Mosecca states "I write to impart information and affect a child's life.

Writing is a natural outgrowth of my commitment to children, to life, and to the search for truth. It is also a way to contribute to posterity.

To write is to put into reality the values, beliefs, and knowledge central to your very being.

As a writer, I create a world where children can reach out and test the limits of their imagination in safety.

As an author I let children take their classroom with them. They carry it home in their backpack, sneak under the covers (flashlight in hand), and read in the dark of night."

The second in the series, The Magic of Laven-Rock, is due out at the end of August, 2008. She also lets slip an exclusive about her newest manuscript, Return to K'biadron.
