

Ethical SEO Marketing Company Unlimited Web Solutions Expands Website, Pricing Structure & Facility

Leading SEO and Internet marketing company, Unlimited Web Solutions, has announced the expansion of their facilities, pricing and website. This expansion gives clients more options for Search Engine Optimization training and online marketing plans.

September 3, 2008 (FPRC) -- RALEIGH, NC -- The search engine optimization marketing agency Unlimited Web Solutions has announced it has expanded their pricing structure, facility and website.

To make facilities more comfortable for their staff and open the possibility of expanding their employee numbers in the future, Unlimited Web Solutions has expanded into a new location four times the size of their current location.

The Internet marketing firm has expanded online as well. Their newly re-launched website features a new logo and header as well as streamlined graphics and navigation. The header features four corners outlining the company's area of expertise including Organic SEO, Programming, Pay-per-click advertising, and Social media. Co-owner and Vice President of Unlimited Web Solutions, David Williams, is pleased with the redesign of the website and feels customers will be able to get a good feel for what their company can offer.

"We are looking to target businesses who are serious about their online image and presence. Our goal is to partner with companies who can benefit from all four aspects of our expertise -- not just one or two. In this way we feel we can really make an impact with rankings and onsite conversions," said Williams.

Lastly, Unlimited Web Solutions (<http://www.unlimitedwebsolutions.com>) has added additional options to their pricing structure. Now, in addition to beginning a long-term relationship with clients on a monthly basis, the Internet marketing company offers customers the option of flat-fee projects including on-site SEO training and consultation and in-depth online marketing plans specific to a client's needs.

The on-site SEO training program offered by Unlimited Web Solutions is geared towards medium to large web design firms, IT firms, and advertising agencies that can benefit from increasing the SEO services they provide.

"We fly to wherever the client is located and conduct a thorough two-day training session. We find many of the designers and companies we work with are amazed at how many things they have been doing wrong when it comes to SEO. We not only help them better serve their existing clients, but give them the tools required to increase their fees and add additional sources of income. The training session easily pays for itself in a matter of months," said Williams.

The marketing plan offered by the Internet marketing agency is designed for end-users looking for an in-depth analysis of their current online status. This plan includes in-depth keyword research, competitor analysis, and website analysis. From there, the search engine optimization specialists will recommend a plan to increase online presence including organic SEO, social media marketing, and website optimization. The Internet marketing specialists also include up to a total of five hours of telephone consulting to ensure the customer understands every aspect of the recommendations and results.
