

New Website out Dedicated to Nurturing Creative Talent.

Allowing you to take the fate into your own hands.

October 25, 2008 (FPRC) -- Skillcircus is a new company looking to encourage creativity and productivity. It's a place where people can share their work and their passion online such as dance, art, music, acting, fashion, finance, photography, anything at all.

People share their skills in the hope to attract like minded people in which to collaborate with. For example if you're a musician and looking to start a band, you might search skillcircus.com for a drummer, or maybe you have a good business idea, you might search skillcircus.com for an investor. But if your not looking for a collaborator then you can simply upload your work to show the world your capabilities.

If you've ever felt that your talent is going to waste or wondered if your ever going to get some recognition for your work, then Skillcircus is for you. Our mission is to help people make their dreams come true, something that everybody is capable of, but don't always get the opportunities that allow it to happen.

Skillcircus was started by two dancers that felt that there was not enough opportunity in the world for peoples talent to be fully recognised, together they started to build the site aiming to cover all areas of creativity.

The site is being developed so that it can include as many people that are connected with creativity and productivity. If you log on to the site you will be able to register your details before the complete site is launched. But register quick as the early birds will have their profile featured on the Skillcircus homepage once the full site is launched!

Contact Information

For more information contact Alexander Loxton of Skillcircus (<http://www.skillcircus.com>)
0611408346

Keywords

networking

agent

talent

You can read this press release online here