

Homeschooling Supplies Retailer Helps Parents Find Curriculum Programs For Specific Learning Styles

HomeschoolingBooks.Com, a homeschool textbooks and Christian home schooling supplies retailer, offers online visitors an extensive range of tools and information to help identify the curriculum and supplies needed to match a child's learning style.

November 1, 2008 (FPRC) -- FENTON, MI -- The online provider of homeschooling supplies and homeschool textbooks, HomeschoolingBooks.com now offers visitors a variety of tools, tips, and information to help them determine which items will best meet the needs of the individual child.

HomeschoolingBooks.com provides parents with a printable scope and sequence for a large number of their homeschool supplies. Parents can view a full list of information that details the concepts and skills covered throughout the program. Armed with this knowledge, homeschooling parents can compare the course details with their curriculum for homeschool to determine if the item meets the needs of their chosen program.

HomeschoolingBooks.com has also introduced a table of contents and dual search engines to help locate particular topics and skills. Visitors can now search by their Learning Profile, or through simple and advanced searches.

In addition to providing customers with the author, publisher, product notes, and series notes, the Christian home schooling supplies retailer also offers helpful information and tips about each item through the addition of 'Lori's Notes' as well as 'Learning Profile Notes' to help match the product to the chosen curriculum for homeschool education.

Sample pages now compliment the detailed descriptions already included to provide a well-rounded picture of each product.

"Our goal is to make the selection of homeschooling supplies as easy as possible for our customers. We don't want parents to have to rely on the cover of a book to make their decision. With an in-depth look inside the course, they can decide whether it is the best bridge between the curriculum and the child's learning style," said Lori Coeman of HomeschoolingBooks.com (<https://www.homeschoolingbooks.com/>)

Customers who prefer to purchase a complete curriculum for homeschool education also have the option of purchasing an educational package. HomeschoolingBooks.com groups its products together to create a series of complete curriculums for parents to choose from. Consumers can use the package by itself, or add additional electives to match the child's interests.

"For us, customization is one of the biggest benefits for high school homeschool and preschool homeschool education. The family can incorporate their own values into the lessons using methods that are best suited for the child," said Coeman.
