

New Web Hosting Comparison Site Helps Online Businesses Beat the Economic Crisis

In the middle of an economic downturn it is important for businesses to maintain a reliable and fast online presence. Using the wrong hosting provider can mean downtime and lost revenue. Web Hosting Review Zone is a new web site which compares different web hosting providers and allows business managers to make an informed choice while cutting cost and increasing turn over.

December 1, 2008 (FPRC) -- A new web hosting review website was launched this week that aims to help business managers overcome the financial challenges faced by many small businesses today during the economic crisis. Many small businesses have an online presence for boosting sales include fully fledged e-commerce solutions. Using the wrong hosting provider can be a costly experience. Web Hosting Review Zone is a new web site which compares different web hosting providers and allows business managers to make an informed choice while cutting cost and increasing turn over.

Web Hosting Review Zone allows IT managers to compare hosting providers. Using multiple criteria including price, features and reliability each hosting provider is rated on a scale of one to ten. As well as a final score there are also customer reviews.

Online income for some small businesses can exceed that of the traditional shop and having a reliable, feature full hosting provider while keeping costs down is an essential part of the online business mix. With Web Hosting Review Zone different web hosting companies can be compared and contrasted and informed decisions can be made based on real facts and not just the advertising copy of the hosting provider.

“The purpose of this site is to give consumers the information they need in order to pick a web hosting company. Web Hosting Review clients who are unhappy with their hosting service can take their domain name to one of their hosting service's competitors” said Scott Davidson of Web Hosting Review Zone. “Because of this, they encourage people to look at their reviews and see how their current hosting service compares to the competition.”

Web Hosting Review Zone is online now and can be found at <http://www.webhostingreviewzone.com/>

About Web Hosting Review Zone
