

OSI To Provide Outsourced Accounting Services For Major NJ Non Profit Organization

OSI Business Services recently won a bookkeeping services contract with the Family Support Organization of Morris & Sussex Counties. OSI will handle all accounting services & daily bookkeeping services needed by FSO.

January 13, 2009 (FPRC) -- POMPTON PLAINS, NJ - OSI Business Services recently announced a new contract with the Family Support Organization of Morris & Sussex Counties. OSI will manage all day-to-day accounting services for FSO, including all bookkeeping needs and controllership services.

The State of New Jersey chose OSI for the contract from of a large pool of online accounting services and bookkeeping providers, and has contracted with them to increase efficiency within the FSO.

One of the leading online bookkeeping services nationwide, OSI Business Services provides a number of different solutions to companies throughout the United States. OSI offers a network of service consultants throughout the country, who all work together with an online base to provide bookkeeping services to OSI clients.

OSI's network of clients is even wider than that of consultants: OSI reaches out through the internet to manage bookkeeping and maintain accounts for clients on a daily basis. Advanced internet communication tools used by accountants and clients results in highly personalized relationships with clients throughout the U.S. This system also allows for better specialization, connecting each company with account services from someone who knows their industry.

"We are honored that the State of New Jersey has chosen us for their outsourced accounting services and look forward to helping FSO achieve their goal of assisting families whose children suffer from learning disabilities or behavioral disorders," said Dennis Najjar of OSI (<http://www.osibusinessservices.com>).

The bookkeeping services that OSI will perform for the Family Support Organization are diverse, but include day-to-day tasks such as cash receipts, payroll services, and regular financial reports. Because of the nonprofit nature of FSO, OSI will provide business services focusing more on accounts payable rather than accounts receivable: most of the company funding will come from sources like donations and state funding. However, OSI will also provide complete documentation concerning all donations and funding.

As the controller for FSO, OSI Business Services will provide a number of financial analysis roles. Their analytical online account services will include frequent snapshots of FSO's assets, with an eye toward better management and efficiency. OSI will also prepare reports to be presented internally as well as for the State of New Jersey to discuss financial results and possible future plans. The OSI controller will also provide comprehensive guidance services, offering advice on lowering costs to help FSO provide as much benefit for New Jersey's struggling families as possible.

OSI provides outsourced accounting services to small and mid-size companies, including fast-growing enterprises that need active bookkeeping support. The company has an entirely U.S. based staff, and is nationally known for high quality service and excellent, reliable procedures. Most importantly, OSI helps clients maintain access to their bookkeeping records, allowing for full transparency, accountability, and confidence.

To maintain the highest quality service, OSI accounting services are provided on a one company, one controller and accountant basis. This system keeps client information private, eliminating call centers and increasing client interaction. OSI encourages daily contact between company and bookkeeper, with contact being made by phone, email, or instant messenger.
