

Grand Central Tax Station Combats Fraudulent Offer in Compromise Services With New Online Resource

To combat fraudulent compromise services and protect consumers, tax resolution firm Grand Central Tax Station has enhanced its offer in compromise help resources to empower consumers through education and awareness.

May 6, 2009 (FPRC) -- ROCKLIN, CA – In response, to the downturn of the economy and subsequent proliferation of individuals and businesses seeking offer in compromise relief Grand Central Tax Station has expanded their website to educate consumers so they are armed with the knowledge required to protect and shield themselves when seeking assistance from those that say one thing, but mean another.

"Protection from unethical compromise promoters promising tax relief begins by increasing consumer awareness with points of reference before they seek help. To achieve this objective Grand Central Tax Station has risen to the occasion by expanding its site with the inclusion of its new article 'Essentials of an Offer in Compromise'. We have created the most extensive, comprehensive and easy to follow guides, available online" said Alan Hans of Grand Central Tax Station.

All of the eligibility requirements, constraints, and formulas found in a state or IRS offer, as well as the associated fees and forms required to request offer in compromise relief are organized in a consumer-friendly fashion. Visitors can follow the guide, essentials of an offer in compromise without having to jump from site to site searching for additional resources to educate themselves in preparation of filing an offer and compromise.

"The Internet is full of horror stories of those that have been taken advantage of by unethical offers in compromise promoters. Therefore, we have published a wealth of information on our site that provides guidelines and an organizational research platform to help find a reputable organization that provides offer in compromise help." said Hans

The Grand Central Tax Station website also features in-depth information on a variety of State and IRS collection issues and available tax programs including but not limited to hardship status, back tax returns, installment plans, wage garnishments and offer in compromise relief.
