

Listing a Vacation Rental on All Parts of the Internet

ArrangeYourVacation.com announced a partnership with more than 10 travel providers giving the vacation rental owners and managers the ability to easily reach millions of additional travelers and deliver more rental revenue

May 12, 2009 (FPRC) -- ArrangeYourVacation.com, company committed to providing the best possible online marketing and distribution opportunities for vacation rental owners and managers, announced a partnership with more than 10 travel providers giving the vacation rental owners and managers the ability to easily reach millions of additional travelers and deliver more rental revenue by marketing their properties on ArrangeYourVacation.com

With travelers taking charge of their own travel plans and using the internet in growing numbers, each vacation rental needs to expand the number of places where it appears and where it can accept reservations. With ArrangeYourVacation.com, the listed holiday homes will be put in all the important places on the internet so travelers can find them quickly and easily.

Each property listed on ArrangeYourVacation.com is automatically distributed to these partner sites to maximize the listing's exposure and get more leads. This way, the ArrangeYourVacation.com vacation rental listings gain maximum exposure not only through their own listing interface, but through the many distribution partners, like for example:

- * Google Base
- * Vast
- * iExplore
- * LATimes
- * AOL travel
- * Ravant
- * Away
- * oodle
- * RentBits
- * Yakaz

" <http://ArrangeYourVacation.com> places your vacation rental on the major international travel web sites. Each year, travel portals spend hundreds of millions promoting their web sites. They attract millions of users a month. Now every single vacation rental can benefit from these large marketing budgets when it is listed on these web sites, and we make this possible with our distribution network" said Milan Matchev, CEO of ArrangeYourVacation.com

In this age of high-speed internet and fast communications, travelers want easy access to everything and they want it right now. They like to know if a vacation rental is available, how much it costs, proceed to reserve and receive an confirmation. If this is not provided, the traveler will simply click away and seek the flexibility and speed of another travel website.

"We are confident that we can provide the holiday home owners with a solution that generates a higher yield than any other vacation rentals website in the market, and this without forcing the advertisers to spend hundreds of dollars like the most of the other sites do" added Milan Matchev.
