

Grand Opening of a New Auction Website - Vuulu.com

Vuulu.com has just launched with low-cost electronics products. Brand-new iPods, computers, TVs, among other products can be purchased for less than 20% the retail price!

June 1, 2009 (FPRC) -- Vuulu is a new online bidding website that allows it's members to bid on products for very low costs. vuulu has just launched and has added a wide range of Apple products such as iPods, Macbooks, etc to the mix for extremely low costs to celebrate the launch. Every day we sell brand new, top-name products at incredibly low prices in auctions.

Here's how it works: To get started, you need to buy some bids. Bids cost 75 cents each and are sold in packs of 10, 30, 50, 60, 80, 100, or 500.

Bidders have the choice of placing single bids, or you can use an electronic bid assistant called the 'BidAgent'. Each bid placed increases the price of the product by 1 cent and the auction countdown by up to 10 seconds. To help keep track of the money spent on bidding, each auction displays the amount you've spent on bids and how much you'd save overall, if you were to win the auction at that moment. On the new website, vuulu has created a section exclusively for Apple products:

- * MacBook Pro
- * MacBook Air
- * iMac
- * iPod Classic
- * iPod Nano (3G)
- * iPod Touch (2G)
- * Various iTunes Gift Cards

Pricing and Availability:

Bids can be purchased from the vuulu website once an account has been created. Accounts are free to create and can be created in a matter of seconds. These products are available at a starting price of 0 cents. This means that these products can go at insanely low prices.

Vuulu is a California-based company that offers electronics products in auctions at vuulu.com Our main offices and storage facility are located at 557 South Glenoaks Blvd. in Burbank, CA.
