

Tugboat Enterprises Wins Tech Award Second Year in a Row; Everything Channel Names Selkie Software Emerging Tech Vendor for 2009

The Everything Channel has just released its new list of Emerging Technology Vendors for 2009 and Selkie Software is on the list again. Their line of data recovery products has won them a spot two years in a row.

June 24, 2009 (FPRC) -- Selkie Freedom, which recovers all data on a crashed computer with no pre-install and no backup needed, has won the award this year. Selkie Freedom is Tugboat's USB version of data recovery and joins Selkie Rescue, the live CD network data recovery product.

"This award is recognition of our easy-to-use, innovative product that is superior to other products on the market. Our product is unlike any other data recovery system out there, and continues to exceed everyone's expectations," says Paul Flanagan, VP Sales.

Selkie Software products provide world-class solutions for data migration and data recovery to the Enterprise, SMB, and Home Office Markets. Selkie Software's technology enables Enterprise, SMB, Government and Home Office end-users to migrate, maintain and preserve mission-critical emails, presentations, documents, photos and videos that would otherwise be irretrievable in the event of Operating System or hardware failures or when migrating data to a new desktop.

"Do-it-yourself data recovery is the way of the future, and great for the current economic situation. We offer an inexpensive solution to a common problem; our software enables people to save time and money when experiencing the Blue Screen of Death. You no longer need expensive repair shops that can keep your computer for days. This award reflects what a great product we have," says Jackie Renton, Affiliate Manager.

Selkie Software was designated an Emerging Technology for 2009 by Computer Reseller News (CRN) because of the valuable opportunities it provides home users, IT professionals, and large companies to save money, time, and data.
