

Healthcare.com Launches New User-Friendly Website Offering Free Quotes For Health Insurance Plans

Online health insurance resource, Healthcare.com, launches a new website <http://www.healthinsuranceplan.us/> to better serve customers. Using the new website, customers can access insurance quotes for many types of health insurance plans.

July 13, 2009 (FPRC) -- MIAMI, FL -- Healthcare.com, a popular online resource for health insurance information, recently unveiled a new insurance quote website to better serve its customers. Through the new user-friendly website, customers can now easily access insurance quote information for wide variety of health insurance plans.

The website was specifically designed with ease of use in mind. Upon entering the site, customers conveniently have the choice of selecting to search for health insurance quotes based on the types of health insurance plans they desire. The health insurance plans are smartly broken out by types available, including individual, group, student, Medicare, short-term and dental.

"At Healthcare.com, we are thrilled with the launch of HealthInsurancePlan.us. We strive to provide people with access to quality, affordable health insurance solutions. Through our new website, now even more customers can easily obtain quotes for health insurance plans tailored to their specific needs and location," says Grace Della, VP of Online Marketing for Healthcare.com.

Along with being easy to navigate, the new website also offers customers the benefit of being able to request quotes from top agents in their local area. By narrowing their search by zip code, customers can ensure the quotes they are receiving are applicable to their specific state and area regulations.

In addition to being able to easily request health insurance plan quotes based on specific customer needs and location, HealthInsurancePlan.us also provides convenient access to much needed health insurance resource information. The website features state health insurance guides written by experts in the insurance industry. Through these guides, customers can gain powerful knowledge of the insurance rules and regulations governing the state in which they reside. Additionally, the website's special "Health Blog News" section gives users the inside scoop on the hottest topics on health and health insurance news and issues.

"The health insurance industry is a challenging one to navigate without assistance. Through our new website, we are empowering people with the tools necessary to obtain high quality, affordable health insurance plans. Whether looking for an individual or group insurance plan, or even more specialized types such as short-term or Medicare insurance, we are confident that customers can find the information they need quickly and easily," says Della.

About Healthcare.com: Healthcare.com is an online search firm that serves millions of healthcare and health insurance searches every month by linking site visitors with the providers and information they desire. In addition, Healthcare.com owns and operates a variety of insurance-related websites, including Health Insurance Finders, Health Insurance Plan, and Life Insurance.

Contact Information

For more information contact Grace Della, VP of Online Marketing of Healthcare.com
(<http://www.healthcare.com>)
786-472-2966 ext. 210

Keywords

health insurance plans

affordable health insurance

Life Insurance

You can read this press release online here