

HitContests.com Makes it Easier to Find Contest News with RSS Feed

Online contest and sweepstakes site HitContests.com is promoting a new Feedburner RSS feed for their top contest news.

September 1, 2009 (FPRC) -- HitContests.com updated its offerings with a Feedburner RSS (Really Simple Syndication) feed for their hot contest news. Site visitors will be able to subscribe to the feed and stay up to date on featured contests.

At any given moment there are literally hundreds of contests and sweepstakes being sponsored online by major household brands. Companies sponsor these promotions to attract your attention to a new product or event as they compete for your purchasing power. Prizes range from product samples to cash, vehicles, and vacations.

In the world of online contests and sweepstakes there are certain contests that rise to the top. Some offer life changing prizes while others involve online puzzles or even live treasure hunts. Typically when one of these contests launches potential entrants need to move quickly participate. Having this news as an RSS feed allows HitContests.com followers to know when news has been posted.

In the past month the HitContests.com news featured live treasure hunts in places like New York City and Paris, Illinois. The half million dollar DIY Network Blog Cabin contest was listed for its huge grand prize. HitContests.com is the only contest site online that brings together these winning opportunities into one news feed.

About HitContests.com:

HitContests.com features the greatest hits of free to enter online contest and sweepstakes. By focusing on contests with big prizes and contests that are highly entertaining, HitContests.com allows casual and serious contest entrants to focus on the biggest giveaways.

Contact Information

For more information contact HitContests of HitContests.com (<http://www.hitcontests.com>)

Keywords

contest
sweepstakes
giveaways

You can read this press release online here