

This Winter, CaboWhaleWatching.Net Will Be Offering Some of the Best Cabo Whale Watching Tours to Date

One of the most popular seasonal tours in Cabo San Lucas, Cabo whale watching tours bring guests up close to the action of the wild humpback whales; CaboWhaleWatching.net will be offering some of the best whale watching tours yet

November 5, 2009 (FPRC) -- Cabo San Lucas in the popular Baja Peninsula in Mexico is one of the best places in North and Central America to go on whale watching eco-tours during the winter months of January through April. Cabo Whale Watching.net, the premier website for information and bookings for Cabo San Lucas whale watching excursions, will be offering some of its best and most informative Cabo whale watching tours yet, starting this upcoming January 2010.

Migrating over a thousand miles from the Arctic waters to the Pacific Ocean waters off the coast of Cabo San Lucas, these whales spend almost an entire 4 months in the warm waters of the south Pacific. They are quite abundant and there is rarely a Cabo whale watching tour that does not catch these fascinating creatures in action.

CaboWhaleWatching.net is the leading website for Cabo San Lucas whale watching tours and information on these tours and the whales. The tours listed on their website range from your basic Cabo whale watching excursion to private charters.

The website is excited to offer its customers a variety of new Cabo whale watching tours that they had not offered in the past including whale watching and sailing combos (Cabo San Lucas whale watching tours that depart on majestic sailboats) and whale watching and snorkeling combos. The Cabo Sailing Snorkeling and Sunset Whale Watching trip, for instance, is one of the center's favorite new tours featuring three of the most popular Cabo San Lucas tours: whale watching, snorkeling, and sunset watching.

"Whale watching season in Cabo San Lucas is one of the most exciting time of the years down here in Cabo San Lucas," says reservations agent Jessica Martinez from CaboWhaleWatching.net. "We are so excited to offer such a large variety of Cabo whale watching tours this season."
