

College Jobs Network Offers New All In One Job Search

New all in one job search, instantly, in a single search - to millions of jobs from thousands of company websites and job boards.

December 15, 2009 (FPRC) -- Gardnerville, NV – College Jobs Network, has affiliated with Indeed the most comprehensive search engine for jobs that has pioneered a radically improved approach to job search.

Since 2004, Indeed has given job seekers free access - instantly, in a single search - to millions of jobs from thousands of company websites and job boards. Indeed drives millions of targeted candidates to jobs in every field.

Unlike College Central, Monster, and most other online college job boards, College Jobs Network does not charge any fees job seekers. Instead, it generates all of its revenue from advertising. Employees however can post for 1/8th the price of most job boards to millions of targeted job seekers in every field.

Additionally, the site provides job seekers with effective web-based tools, services, and resources to secure employment with employers for full time jobs, part time jobs, and internship positions. With 1000's unemployed and searching for jobs college jobs network knows a resume could be the difference from getting that next job and has added new resources to create that perfect resume for job seekers.

Most small businesses can't afford to pay $400 to post a listing for the types of jobs they are seeking. However, community sites like Craig's List aren't necessarily designed for making effective job connections between fresh talent and small businesses. On these types of sites, job postings get lost and buried quickly, and there is little in the way of demographics targeting.

With the high rate of unemployment and the lack of jobs in all fields job seekers are looking for legitimate online home jobs now more than ever. With that in mind, college jobs network has added resources for legitimate online home job opportunities. Yes many online home based jobs are scams but are they really? College jobs network resources now helps you through the maze of online offers and will help you create or get a legitimate online home based job.
