A+ Essentials practice exams conform to 2009 exam objectives and consists of 3 full length practice tests with over 300 multiple choice questions. APLUS certification, awarded by CompTIA (R) , is a widely recognized vendor neutral computer hardware and operating systems certification

February 19, 2010 (FPRC) -- SimulationExams.com, a provider of IT certification practice exams has recently released A+ Essentials (Exam code: 220-701) practice exams. Exam# 220-701 together with 220-702 are required exams for being awarded CompTIA A+ certification. APLUS cert, awarded by CompTIA is one of the most popular certifications in the field of computer hardware and operating systems. Aplus Certification is intended for candidates who have experience in the following areas:

- Computer Hardware
- Troubleshooting
- Operating Systems (Specifically Windows 2000 and above)
- Networking
- Security, and
- Professionalism

The practice tests offered by SimulationExams include 300+ highly relevant questions that provides a simulated test environment for a candidate before appearing for real exam. The advantages of a simulated exam are:

- * Ability to gauge one's preparedness to take actual certification exam using section-wise scoring
- * To prepare for final exam quickly and affectively
- *To familiarize oneself with actual exam environment (such as timed test, relevant practice questions, etc.)

The questions types include multiple choice single answer, multiple choice multiple answers, true/false, and exhibit based questions. Most of the questions carry detailed explanation for thorough understanding of the subject. Section wise scoring is provided for identifying weak areas. The tests conform to the objectives of the A+ Essentials exam.

Other CompTIA practice exams available include Network+, Server+, Security+, and others.
