

Boutique Vacations Plans On Success

Welcome to the Boutique difference where we not only meet but far exceed your expectations.

March 3, 2010 (FPRC) -- After the launch of their new Web site this month, BoutiqueVacations.net is even more excited than before.

“This company offers people the opportunity to book elegant overseas vacations and honeymoon travel packages from their homes,” said Sara Koshko, Travel Coordinator for BoutiqueVacations.net. “People can book their trips without having to even leave their home to go talk to a travel agency, it’s really quite convenient. The packages we offer are great deals and are extremely affordable, even in today’s economy.”

Even after just one month online, Boutique Vacations has already added new travel packages to the mix including their European River Cruises. This package allows people to travel all over Europe to see the world’s most interesting historical places, with some free time to do a bit of shopping as well. Not only are European River Cruises Boutique Vacations’ specialty, they can book these types of cruises for an extremely low rate compared to other vacation companies.

Another specialty of Boutique Vacations includes their all inclusive travel packages. “These are really great packages for those people who are traveling with their families,” Sara said. “In these packages all your travel, meals, drinks, tips, gratuities, entertainment and accommodations are included. This allows for a stress free vacation where you don’t have to worry about a thing, you are being completely pampered. This is what makes our company so different I think. People can completely rely on us to take care of everything for them, and I mean everything.”

Boutique Vacations also allows you to communicate with your travel coordinator from your home. All customers have to do is pick which package they want and a Boutique Vacations travel coordinator is available for a one-on-one consultation at the customer’s convenience. This is helpful for those with busy lifestyles who want to book their vacations fast and efficiently.

“We partner with the most professional and dependable providers to assure that every aspect of your itinerary is expertly planned and coordinated to give you confidence and peace of mind throughout your vacation. Our competent and caring travel coordinators will be there for you from our initial contact with you to your safe arrival back home.”

This is the Boutique difference—say GOODBYE to those disappointing travel arrangements and inadequate accommodations that fall short of your vacation dreams. Welcome to the Boutique difference where we not only meet but far exceed your expectations.
