Miami, FL - July 28, 2010 (FPRC) — South Florida IT services company Invizio is pleased to announce the launch of its new and improved corporate website. Invizio, which offers IT support, management and monitoring services to small businesses in the South Florida market cited strengthened market position as the motivation for revamping their online presence. The website features new information on the company and its services, improved access for clients to request technical support and reflects updates to the Invizio brand.

In celebration of the website launch, Invizio is offering small businesses in South Florida 2 hours of complimentary computer support to assist them with any technology challenge that they face. “Invariably, every small business owner has questions about leveraging IT, but until they have someone right in front of them to ask, many never seek out information on their own. We see this as an opportunity for small businesses to get access to technical knowledge and have their questions answered” says Invizio co-founder and Managing Partner Kevin V. Michael.

As part of the launch of the new website, the company has revived the Invizio blog which will feature technology tips and information to help their clients be more productive and stay in tune with emerging trends in small business technology. The first blog post in this vein, “5 Productivity Applications We Couldn’t Live Without”, will discuss free or inexpensive web-based technologies that Invizio currently uses or recommends to its clients. “Invizio is a reliable partner for the successful implementation of state-of-the-art business technologies. We are pleased with their latest moves to share their knowledge and expertise with the community” said Steven Befera of the Befera Law Firm, an Invizio client and past president of the Dade County Bar Association.
