The seventies rock sensation Supertramp take their current tour to Spain on the 18th September and will be appearing at the Palau Sant Jordi Arena in Barcelona.

The British group were made famous with such hits as 'Breakfast in America', 'Dreamer' and 'The Logical Song' and will perform to celebrate their 40th year in the music business.

The 70 – 10 Tour is a chance for Supertramp fans from all over Europe to see this record-breaking rock band once more and the Palau Sant Jordi Arena in Barcelona is the ideal venue. The live performance at this 17,000 seat venue will start at 20.00 and tickets to attend the event are either €109 (£90.94) or, for superior seating, €119 (£99.28).

The concert hall is one of the landmark sites of modern Barcelona, along with such attractions as the Gaudi Gardens, the impressive Gothic Cathedral and Teatre Grec. The Palau Sant Jordi Arena is situated on the Passeig Olimpic and can be easily reached by the L1 or L3 metro lines which both stop close by.

The Palau Sant Jordi is Barcelona's most renowned concert venue and the world's leading performers line up to play this hall in Montjuic Park, which was built for the 1992 Olympic Games and contains some of the most modern and up to date technology on offer. While hotels in Barcelona vary from the five star international chains centrally located, to more economic accommodation throughout the city, there will certainly be plenty to see and visit during your stay.
