August 12, 2010 (FPRC) -- BISMARCK, ND -- Wood Creations, Inc., a company that sells wooden toy boxes, announces it has launched a new website aimed at customers interested in buying a keepsake box or memory chest.

The company has an entire line of memory chests, ranging from a small 14 by 10.5 by 6.5 box to a large 41 by 21 by 21 chest. They are available in cherry, oak or espresso finishes and built to last. Some of these popular chests include a removable photo frame so loved ones can include a special photograph and each keepsake box contains a space for engraving. Engraving is included in the cost of the chest and can be done on either the top or inside of the lid so that it is visible when the chest is opened. Customers can choose from five different typeface styles.

"Our memory chests were created with a special need in mind. Too often, loved ones don't have a special place to put mementoes of their loved ones after they've passed away. Our keepsake boxes can hold nearly anything from a beloved homemade quilt to military honors and flags honoring the deceased. Many of our keepsake boxes also have removable trays especially designed to keep smaller trinkets from being lost at the bottom of the box. We know losing a loved one can be difficult and we hope that having a special place to store memories can help," said Bob Beck of Wood Creations, Inc..

Although each wooden chest was initially designed to store mementoes from loved ones who have passed away, the boxes have a number of other uses. These keepsake boxes can be used to store memories from high school, such as letterman's jackets, yearbooks and other special memorabilia, given to a woman as a hope chest or bridal chest or as a place to hold family treasures. Because each keepsake box is custom engraved, customers can choose to use the chests in various ways.

"Although we initially started selling memory boxes to help customers remember and cherish their deceased loved ones, we quickly realized our wooden chests had a multitude of uses. Whether you're looking for something to store keepsakes or just want an attractive place to keep extra linens, visit our new website and check out our entire range of products," said Beck.
