

Professional Recovery Consultants Introduce New Company Blog

Professional Recovery Consultants, Inc are pleased to announce the new company Blog, which has been developed to provide a place for the company to discuss the collections industry and their business. With the addition of a newsletter and blog, Professional Recovery Consultants are dedicated to developing a social media program.

August 14, 2010 (FPRC) -- Today, Professional Recovery Consultants, a Durham, NC based debt recovery agency, announced the addition of a Blog to their company website. The Blog will be used to share company and industry news, as well as providing an area where clients of can learn more about the company and their services.

Professional Recovery Consultants new Blog provides an area where the company can discuss many of the intricacies that are involved with the recovery industry. This includes analyzing new and pending legislation, as well as providing general information about the asset protection industry. They are also developing a newsletter that will provide clients with an inside view on how the company works and thinks.

George, who is involved with the development of the Blog and Newsletter, said, "Setting up a Blog is something we have wanted to do for some time. I feel that it is important to participate in social media, as well as provide clients and visitors a better understanding of the mechanics of the industry."

Professional Recovery Consultants, Inc. is an established collection agency based in Durham, North Carolina. Since 1979, they have worked with many industries, including utility companies, healthcare providers, banks, retail, and government, to provide effective asset protection. Professional Recovery Consultants offer a number of services, which include courtesy calls, pre-collection programs, skip tracing, litigation, and much more, while meeting or exceeding all federal and state regulations. Professional Recovery Consultants are one of the few collection agencies to have received a PPMS Certification from the American Collectors Association.

Contact Information

For more information contact Ralph Nadly of Professional Recovery Consultants
(http://www.prorecoveryinc.com/index.php?option=com_contact&view=contact&id=2&Itemid=56)

Keywords

collection agency

debt recovery

skip tracing

You can read this press release online here