

United Tech Store Just Announced It Finished Search Functionality Enhancements, to Simplify the Way Techies Shop Online.

Internet Marketer, Mike Neder, says the site offers "Social shopping for geeks." Of course, Mike shops at UTS as well...

August 24, 2010 (FPRC) -- United Tech Store is a comparison shopping tool that specializes in technology items. Following a few major transformations, UTS now provides easy search functionality to find gadgets and relevant posts more easily. This benefits customers and all web site visitors by making it incredibly user-friendly. Simply input what you are looking for in the 'find' box or browse through categories. Either way, UTS will give you the most relevant results for your search, so that you can compare them, and select the item that is best for you, no matter where that product is offered on the Internet.

Some of the gadgets which are most popular on the UTS site are ink cartridge replacements, cellular phones, and personal computer parts and accessories. There are also car sound items, camcorders, computers, and office products. The website is also worth peeking at daily, since they offer you Daily Deals on products. Some recent discounts were an Asus Republic of Gamers laptop, an Invicta Subaqua wrist watch, and a Transformers Bumblebee Role Play Helmet with a voice-mixer, and a handful of great assortments in fine jewelry.

The web page has got a really user-friendly look. With merely a look users can easily discover the most popular bargains for the day, the most favored things and the ones with the highest ratings. more options of the website for techies are the tech news blurbs, and the blogs and conversations about the latest and best technology. Aspiring technology bloggers can write articles about their desired issues and publish them on the website, while mingling with other tech folks.

About Mike Neder:

Mike Neder is a prestigious Internet Marketer with a large experience both working with large organizations and helping small start-ups grow their business. He started out as a software engineer, but over the years he learned that he was more enthusiastic about online marketing. He developed from ground up a series of projects, set up thriving online businesses, served major brands and gained industry-wide appreciation for his expertise.

Contact Information

For more information contact Mike Neder of United Tech Store (<http://www.unitedtechstore.com>)
914-484-0940

Keywords

technology items
social shopping
mike neder

You can read this press release online here