

Award Winning Trading Software Developer to Speak

Award winning trading software developer Dean Hoffman will be speaking at the Las Vegas Traders Expo on November 19th 2010 at Caesars Palace.

September 5, 2010 (FPRC) --Award winning trading software developer Dean Hoffman will be speaking at the Las Vegas Traders Expo on November 19th 2010 at Caesars Palace.

You don't need to have a million dollar account at a financial institution to have access to a super powerful, trend-following trading system. In this talk, futures trading expert Dean Hoffman explains how his Relativity Trading System gives you the features, power, and speed of a million dollar trading system at a tiny fraction of the price. You'll see how Hoffman has combined 5 trading systems in one, each one working simultaneously to give you a broader and deeper reach into the futures market. Find out how Relativity is able to cover over 80 futures markets every day, locating prime trading opportunities in each market. But locating opportunities is only part of the picture. Hoffman will also demonstrate the robust risk management features built into Relativity - how it limits your risk in every trade, in each sector and for your entire portfolio. Relativity is the updated, more powerful and sophisticated evolution of Hoffman's Checkmate trading system, which was named, "One of the top ten trading systems of all time," two years in a row, by Futures Magazine. With over 20 years of experience in futures trading, Hoffman is currently CEO of Hoffman Asset Management. Previously he headed up his own trading firm at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange as well as a trading system development company.

This event will be held on November 19th 2010 at Caesars Palace Las Vegas at the Traders Expo.
