

See in the New Year with Special Parties in Boracay

Travellers to the Filipino island of Boracay can take part in a series of spectacular parties taking place across the island's many beaches on New Years Eve DirectRooms.com can reveal

November 10, 2010 (FPRC) -- Boracay is home to some of the most beautiful beaches in the world which are covered with the purest golden white sand lying next to the clear blue waters of the sea. People heading to the tropical paradise over New Years Eve can attend a number of parties and events being held by each of the many resorts and hotels spread out across the island.

To celebrate the New Year the island is famous for its huge fireworks display which is provided by the resorts on the island, with each one putting on a separate show and trying to outdo each other. The sky will be filled with colour and the sound of exploding firecrackers as revellers can sit back and watch all the action.

On the night are also a number of live music performances by famous local bands and DJs who will provide the music for people to dance the night away as the evening crosses over into 2011.

An event not to be missed is also the sandcastle building contest that will feature artists sculpting awe-inspiring sand castles from the golden sand.

The island is already a popular tourist destination and with the influx of tourists heading for New Year, demand for a hotel Boracay is set to dramatically increase.

Lek Boonlert, marketing head at DirectRooms.com commented: 'What better way to see in the New Year than in the tropical paradise of Boracay. Hundreds of families and travellers will be joining in the celebrations so people planning on visiting are advised to book accommodation well in advance.'
