May 2, 2011 (FPRC) -- Bangalore, India: RippleRock, the leader in Agile Project Management training and consulting, announced today the creation and scheduled delivery of the first training course dedicated to the Agile Certification Program offered by the Project Management Institute (PMI). The PMI is the largest global project management organization with over 600,000 constituents. The course will take place June 3-5 in New Delhi, India in cooperation with the PMI North India Chapter, and will be delivered by Jesse Fewell, Managing Director, RippleRock India. Fewell is the founder of the PMI Agile Community of Practice and for the past two years has worked with other industry experts on creating the learning objectives, content and exam requirements for the new PMI certification program.

According to Tom Reinsel, CEO of RippleRock, "The opportunity to bring an Agile certification to the existing Project Management community on a global level is exciting, innovative and will help meet the demands for organizations required to drive business value more effectively". He continues "We are determined to bring a high quality, well priced and inspirational certification experience to the project management industry." Fewell comments "We are delighted to partner with PMI North India chapter to pilot this training program. This new offering fits with a consistent pattern of ground breaking programs offered by PMI chapters in India, and sets the stage for extending the course into the US and UK. "
