

Daily Financial Market Report Launched Online-Spread-Betting.com

Online-Spread-Betting.com has launched a brand new Market Data section

July 5, 2011 (FPRC) -- Online-Spread-Betting.com has announced the launch of a brand new daily report. The financial spread betting website, which assists novice investors and seasoned traders alike, has introduced a Market Data section.

This is the latest in a long list of improvements: the spread betting site was redesigned earlier this year, and has recently launched a broad range of trading guides.

The new section provides an overview of the spread betting markets, and is designed to assist spread bettors speculating across several markets.

Head Editor Emma Franklin commented: "Online Spread Betting is already one of the most comprehensive spread betting resources on the internet, and attracts large numbers of financial spreads traders every day due the up-to-the-minute reporting," she said.

"This new section present data on a variety of markets, from forex to commodities, and keeps traders up to date on the latest financial announcements."

The spread betting market data report covers the latest movements in the stock market indices, the commodities markets and the FX markets. It assists investors who are speculating on indices such as the Dow Jones, the NASDAQ and the DAX, currency pairs like the EURUSD and GBPJPY and commodities such as oil and gold.

The report, which is updated daily, also lists the upcoming economic indicators and company results.

"Visitors to Online Spread Betting vary from the novice investor to the most experienced of traders, we feel that this latest section will assist all of our users," Franklin added. "However this is but one of the site's offerings, www.Online-Spread-Betting.com also publishes regular spread betting tips, market analysis and trading news."
