

Clean Financial Launches Shares Spread Betting Review

Leading spread trading website CleanFinancial.com has introduced a brand new section, the UK Share Trading Review.

August 23, 2011 (FPRC) -- Leading spread betting website CleanFinancial.com has introduced a brand new section. The UK Share Trading Review, updated daily, lists the biggest risers and fallers on the FTSE 100, and looks at why these moves have happened.

Spread betting is becoming an increasingly popular way of speculating on stocks and shares. Since the derivative was introduced to the UK market in the 1970s, an increasing number of financial traders and investors have moved away from the more traditional form of trading shares, ie buying and selling actual stakes in a company, and towards spread betting (often referred to as spread trading).

There are a myriad of factors that have led to this trend; spread trading has many advantages over traditional share trading. Of course, financial spread betting also has some disadvantages.

One of the advantages is the fact that traders can speculate on share prices to go both up and down, allowing them to make a profit on both rising and falling markets.

Another one of the advantages is the fact that investors can speculate on a huge range of shares, often, depending on which spread betting firm you use, from one trading platform.

"We introduced the UK Share Trading Review in order to assist spread traders speculating on multiple shares on the FTSE 100," said Jenna Cutly, editor.

"We already offer a broad range of daily market reviews and analytical articles covering both financial spread betting and the financial markets in general. There is daily technical analysis, charts, daily market data and daily updates on the commodities markets, forex markets, stock indices and, of course, stocks and shares. This is the latest in a long list of great content."

The UK Share Trading Review on <http://www.cleanfinancial.com>, which is updated daily, lists the top 10 risers and the top 10 fallers on the FTSE 100. It also summarises all the biggest news items of the day and how they have influenced the shares spread betting markets.
