

Tel Aviv to Host Major Film Festival from 3 to 5 November 2011

Israel's second city Tel Aviv is this coming November set to be busier than ever as film fans from all over the country and region head into town to enjoy a fantastic movie and cinema festival - 'Spirit', the 5th International Festival of Spiritual Cinema.

September 9, 2011 (FPRC) -- Taking place between 3rd November and 5th November this year, 'Spirit' hosts a range of different styles of film which viewers can enjoy - the categories on show include full-length and feature movies, documentary films and also a selection of short films too.

The theme of the 'Spirit' festival is one of spirituality and this is the subject matter of the majority of movies on show. In addition to the films on show for fans to enjoy, there are other attractions to see and experience - painting and artwork shows, performance art and talking head slots are also available to attendees.

The venue which will host the 'Spirit' festival is Tel Aviv's Cinematheque venue, the city's premier movie and arts destination. Tel Aviv is a thriving city which boasts a busy downtown area, and 'Spirit' attendees wanting to stay in Tel Aviv city centre hotels would be wise to book them in advance, says DirectRooms.com.

Lek Boonlert, marketing head of DirectRooms.com says, 'This celebration of spiritual cinema has picked a lovely destination in Tel Aviv - there is something mystical about the city which makes it a great choice. However anyone heading to Tel Aviv in November - whether to attend Spirit or otherwise, would be well advised to book accommodation online well before travelling there.'
