

Website Designers In Birmingham Join Marketing Quotes

Over the last 3 months, new website designers from around the city of Birmingham in the UK have joined Marketing Quotes in order to help businesses locally to get quotes and advice for website design.

September 13, 2011 (FPRC) -- Marketing Quotes noted that there has been a surge in website designers from Birmingham that have been registering on the site.

The UK has been struggling with the recession and many companies have been finding it hard to grow due to there being a climate of doubt.

The city of Birmingham in the UK has been growing steadily as new investment has been made both in the city center and the wider area, and many new companies have been growing within Birmingham. As a result many of these new companies are seeking websites to be designed in order to kick start them as they grow in the early years.

Anne Richards of Marketing Quotes stated 'It does seem to be a knock on effect, new companies start, they need websites to be designed. The surge in new enquiries from the Midlands area (in particular Birmingham) means that local website designers in Birmingham are in the best position to helping out (as most businesses to prefer to work with someone local rather than someone hundreds of miles away)'.

In the last 3 months there have been over 200 new website designers from Birmingham register on Marketing Quotes who are able to offer website design services to companies local to Birmingham and across the Midlands.

Anne Richards also commented 'it is encouraging to see new businesses starting up around Birmingham, hopefully this is the sign that the recession is close to an end and once again we can become a prosperous nation'.
