October 6, 2011 (FPRC) -- ST. PAUL, MINN. -- Skyline Exhibits, a company that designs and builds innovative and high quality trade show stands, recently added two new employees to its corporate headquarters. Tim Brengman joins Skyline Exhibits as the Vice President of Operations and Elaine Prickel is the company's new Director of Human Resources. The two new employees bring a wealth of experience to Skyline Exhibits.

Brengman has over 20 years of experience in manufacturing operations and supply chain management in the biopharmaceutical and consumer package goods industries. He has familiarity with improving technically difficult operations, building and managing high-performing teams and developing long-term business relationships.

Prickel's experience in Human Resources comes from her time as the President of ENP Resources, Inc. and the Director of Human Resources at FMC Corporation. Elaine also brings diversity in her background and experience. She has a B.S. in Chemical Engineering and her MBA and has held professional positions in engineering, manufacturing, materials management, purchasing, and strategic planning.

"Tim brings a disciplined approach to our global businesses. With his extensive experience in manufacturing and engineering, we are confident that Skyline's already stellar reputation for innovative quality products and services will only be enhanced. Elaine's passion is in developing Skyline's most important asset: our people. As our business continues to grow, Elaine will play a vital role in hiring, training and retaining the future leaders of our company," said Bill Dierberger, President of Skyline Exhibits.

Skyline Exhibits has designed trade show displays for some of the biggest names in business. The company can help businesses evaluate larger island exhibits and understands how expert service and maximum impact work can fit alongside a company's marketing budget. In addition to island exhibits, Skyline is an industry leader in modular displays, banner stands, table top displays and other types of trade show exhibits.

Skyline's designs are created especially for each client and are ideal for exhibitors who want a professional design and structure to show off their product or reinforce their company's image. "Helping our clients achieve a successful show with their trade show display is our number one priority and we're sure Tim and Elaine are going to be amazing assets to our organization. We're excited about the growth potential they both bring to Skyline and can't wait to see what the future holds for all of us," said Dierberger.
