

Strange, Creepy Phenomenon of Children with Black Eyes All over the World

In 1998, American journalist Brian Bethel told the story of his chilling encounter with children who had unearthly, black eyes. Some believe they are lost souls, demons or vampires but is there a more compelling explanation?

November 2, 2011 (FPRC) -- Ada Avery releases exclusive eBook 'Star Child' on Amazon.

Josie Sanchez is a single mom living in a trailer in the desert town of Rachel, Nevada. A hard life on the streets with the San Chucos gang has made her a tough-as-nails waitress at the Little 'Le' Inn where she struggles to support her 7-year-old daughter Riley who has unearthly, black eyes.

When Riley is kidnapped by mysterious Men in Black, Josie finds help from Colt Dixon, a troubled ex-Marine who served in Iraq. Recruited by the National Security Agency for a top-secret mission, Colt tries to save Riley after a government-alien conspiracy to replace humans with genetically-altered hybrids is revealed.

Star Child is a fast-paced, paranormal thriller. This suspenseful, contemporary story has a commercial appeal for both young adults and a mainstream audience because of its current theme and culturally diverse characters that speak real, gritty dialogue.

Ada Avery is a Minnesota author and screenwriter who sold a screenplay to Ballistic Films, an independent production company in Canada. She is a going-green advocate who enjoys blogging her humorous opinions on various subjects, volunteering when she can and educating others about Lyme Disease and Diabetes.
