Peninsula Business Services, the UK's largest employment law consultancy is pleased to launch it's free bi-weekly email business newsletter, 'The Bottom Line Express'.

November 4, 2011 (FPRC) -- Peninsula Business Services, the UK's largest employment law consultancy, is pleased to launch it's free bi-weekly email business newsletter, 'The Bottom Line Express'. The newsletter is aimed at company owners, directors, senior managers, HR and personnel managers.

Peter Done, managing director of Peninsula Business Services said today, 'If you want to grow your business or effectively manage your staff then you need to get subscribed, it's the essential resource. Every two weeks our subscribers receive the latest employment law and health & safety updates so they are fully compliant with the law. We will also provide entrepreneurs with practical advice on how to grow a business.'

Peter Done continues, 'The lessons I have learnt over the years I wish to pass on to our readers. Business is tough but I hope 'The Bottom Line Express' provides enough useful information, advice and guidance to make a business work. We our subscribers are updated with employment legislation and provide practical ways to ensure red tape does not become a barrier to the growth of their business.'

Done concludes, 'The Bottom Line Express also likes to hear from its readers, we want to know their views on red tape issues, advice on how to grow a business, and opinions on topical issues that affect business growth. It really is a business essential for any business that wishes to succeed.'

The Bottom Line Express is available for free on a bi-weekly basis. You can subscribe via <http://www.peninsula-uk.com/bottomlineexpress/order.asp>
