

PacificPlex Announces Cyber Monday Sale

Customers can get big savings on merchandise on Monday, November 28th

November 16, 2011 (FPRC) -- RIVERSIDE, California -- PacificPlex, a premier online retailer and fashion leader specializing in formal evening wear and plus size dress options today announced that it will be holding a big Cyber Monday sale on Monday, November 28th. Customers will be able to find big one-day-only saving's on PacificPlex's extensive selection of formal dresses, tops, bottoms, outerwear and accessories.

'When it comes to saving money on the merchandise, there are two days in late November that have become pseudo-holidays for consumers: Black Friday and Cyber Monday,' says Anna Evers, Director of Marketing for PacificPlex. 'While most people have plenty of experience getting up early and heading down to the malls on the day after Thanksgiving for Black Friday sales, Cyber Monday is a newer phenomenon. While Black Friday is the day to get savings at the store, the Monday after Thanksgiving, or Cyber Monday, is the day to get the best saving's online. At PacificPlex.com, we are offering big savings during our Cyber Monday sale, a sale that will only last as long as the merchandise does. It's our customer's best opportunity to get the formalwear they want for the best prices of the year.'

Pacific Plex's Cyber Monday sale will offer savings on hundreds of fashionable formalwear and dresses. Whether customers are looking for something simple and traditional for school dance or something new and vibrant for a night out, they can find what they need at PacificPlex in sizes up to 5X. As with most Cyber Monday sales, customers will want to log onto PacificPlex.com early so that they can get the best selection while the inventory is plentiful. While PacificPlex may offer more choices than a local department store, customers can expect many popular styles to sell out early in the day.
