Miami, Fl., December 13, 2011 (FPRC) -- Mark Two Engineering, Inc., a leading single source contract manufacturer for a majority of the top 10 Orthopedic Device Companies, launched its newly redesigned website, www.marktwo.com, in a customer driven response that addresses client needs.

The new content rich website serves as an information clearing house for current and potential customers on all things Mark Two Engineering, from updated images and facility descriptions to up-to-the minute factory improvement endeavors, lean process projects and beyond.

The new site features a comprehensive photo gallery, a news area covering factory happenings, a quoting gateway, and will soon include publications highlighting Mark Two Engineering, miscellaneous company videos such as a virtual plant tour, and process tutorials.

"We are very excited to have a website that serves as a user friendly interface in information transference between Mark Two Engineering and our ever expanding audience" states Cheryl Box Gomez, President and co-owner of Mark Two Engineering. The other owner and Chairman of the Board, Bill Box, has decades of experience in the biomedical industry including co-founding Symbiosis, which became the leading manufacturer of flexible biopsy forceps prior to being acquired by American Home Products and then subsequently acquired by Boston Scientific.

Box continues, "With this new site, Mark Two Engineering has a virtual presence that sends the same clear message that our experience does: we are your contract manufacturing source. From customer satisfaction and product delivery to innovative thinking and cutting edge machining, Mark Two Engineering continually strives for excellence. This is why we continue to serve, year after year, many of the top medical device companies."
