January 26, 2012 (FPRC) -- PINE BROOK, NJ -- Skyline Exhibits New Jersey, a company that teams with customers to create a one of a kind trade show booth New Jersey, recently won five awards at the 43rd Annual Jersey Awards. The awards were hosted by the New Jersey Advertising Club in early June, 2011.

Skyline Exhibits New Jersey won a first place award for its Small Exhibit Booth Display for Carlino, a first and second place award for Trade Show Booth/Graphics for Woodstock Inn & Resorts and Halka Nurseries Inc, and a first and second place award for Large Exhibit Booth Design for Adecco and Terumo Transfusion.

The New Jersey Advertising Club helps promote promotional development through networking and strengthens the interests of advertising business throughout New Jersey. Additionally, the organization helps represent members on state and national issues. Entries are now being accepted for the 2012 awards.

"We're honored to receive these awards, but we're even more excited for our customers. Having an award-winning trade show display means that customers will stand up and take notice of their display, even among the competition. We work hard for every customer, large or small and treat each trade show booth as if we're trying to win an award for our customers and we think it shows," said Scott Price of Skyline Exhibits New Jersey.

In addition to creating a trade show stand New Jersey, the company can also assist with trade show installation in NJ and around the country. Skyline Exhibits New Jersey is a part of an extensive network of Skyline Exhibits, which mean that its designers have access to some of the most dynamic displays in the industry. Skyline Exhibits holds 100 patents for its designs and its displays have won a number of major awards across the United States.

"While awards are nice, they're not our main focus. Every day, our goal is to provide our customers with dynamic displays that will make an impact, whether they're using them to impress customers at an industry convention or finding new talent at a job fair. We take the time to sit with each customer and help them determine what they're looking for before we ever start designing. It's personal attention like this that helps assure our clients that we're looking out for their best interests," said Price.
