

Demon's Cycle Launches New Range of Mini Gauges for Harleys and Custom Motorcycles

Custom motorcycle builder releases new range of speedometers and tachometers with black and white faces.

January 30, 2012 (FPRC) -- Demon's Cycle Inc., a custom motorcycle builder and custom Harley-Davidson motorcycle parts supplier, has released a new, unique range of mechanical and electronic mini gauges for custom motorcycles. These speedometers and tachometers, with black or white faces, are accurate enough to get a reading with just a single glance but small enough not to clutter your handlebars.

Every motorcycle needs gauges, and those who customize their motorcycles can compliment their customizations with a new mini gauge. Available in mechanical and electronic versions, with and without odometers and in various ratios, these mini instruments are a great addition to any project.

"No motorcycle customization is complete without custom gauges," said Tom Steinbacher, owner of Demon's Cycle. "Our new range of mini gauges compliment a bike's design and style. We have gauges styled after Harley-Davidson speedos or you can pick a different style. That is the beauty of customization! Every biker should find a mini gauge in our new range to suit their needs."

All Demon's Cycle mini gauges are liquid filled and add a high-tech accent but, importantly, they also help to monitor the condition of your engine and prevent overheating. All the instruments come with the necessary clamps and wiring diagrams (where applicable).
