

Learn Proverbs and Idioms the Fun Way, Greenstone Games Announces Free iPad App Based on T. E. Breitenbachs' Famous Poster Proverbidioms.

Proverbidioms, the poster that has made exploring and learning proverbs and idioms an engaging pastime will soon be available as an iPad app to be released by Greenstone Games.

January 31, 2012 (FPRC) -- Julian Stewart CEO of Greenstone Games announced an upcoming release of the company's new app, Proverbidioms based on the 1975 painting by T.E. Breitenbach.

The artist gives private instruction in his oil painting technique to beginners and professionals alike. T. E. Breitenbach taught himself to paint like an old Master practically overnight, by discovering and using a few simple tricks

The painting later became a popular poster that has intrigued hundreds of thousands of viewers since 1980. The unique and fascinating poster has been featured on TV, in song, several books, calendars, jigsaw puzzles and more. Now it is coming to the app age with more features than ever before.

Proverbidioms is used extensively in over 100 countries across the globe by several organizations, as a device for teaching advanced English comprehension to foreign students.

'This poster makes learning proverbs and idioms fun' said Lynn Smith of Vancouver WA, 'it illustrates the irony of truisms. It's hilarious.' Indeed, our everyday sayings, when taken literally, stimulate humorous, eye-opening images: imagine a real case of 'butterflies in the stomach', or a 'rat race'!

There are hundreds of these axioms depicted in the poster and the upcoming release of the app has educators excited and fans of T.E Breitenbach anxious to download it. Can you tell what axiom is illustrated here? There are hundreds of humorous and intriguing illustrated proverbs and idioms to keep viewers engaged.

The app is still in beta stage and no set release date has been announced although it is expected in mid-February. Interested parties are invited to keep informed from the Greenstone Games Website. <http://www.greenstonegames.com>
