

Entrepreneur, Peter Done, Launches Online Blog to Help Businesses Succeed.

Leading bookmaking founder, entrepreneur and Peninsula Business Services managing director Peter Done launches his new entrepreneur business blog.

February 6, 2012 (FPRC) -- Peter Done, entrepreneur and managing director of the employment law consultancy, Peninsula Business Services has launched a blog dedicated to helping entrepreneurs grow their business.

Peter Done, who helped set up BetFred - the largest independent bookmaking business in the UK, is also founder and managing director of the HR consultancy, Peninsula Business Services which has a multi million pound turnover. Peter was also recently awarded an Ernst & Young entrepreneur award in recognition of his business achievements. Peter Done also provides HR commentary and writes weekly for the Business Doctor column in The Sunday Times.

Peter Done said today, "I want businesses to succeed, they are faced daily with challenges, red tape and obstacles, it's difficult for them but I want them to succeed. I've made mistakes, I've also made some great decisions and I want to pass on some of the lessons that I have learnt over the years. So I have set up a blog with my advice, thoughts and musings, I'll be updating it weekly and I hope that it provides advice and inspiration to budding entrepreneurs or to anyone that wants to get ahead in business."

Peter Done concludes, "I'll be updating it on a frequent basis and I hope it continues to inspire. As always if you would like any business advice then feel free to email me at peterdone@peninsula-uk.com and I will do my best to advise."
