

Bill Gerber Of OSI Business Services Discusses Benefits Of Telecommuting In IT Radix Article

Bill Gerber, Owner of OSI Business Services, LLC, a popular outsourced accounting service firm, is quoted in an IT Radix article for his insight into effective telecommuting.

April 23, 2009 (FPRC) -- POMPTON PLAINS, NJ – Premier outsourced accounting service firm, OSI Business Services, LLC, announced that Managing Member Bill Gerber was recently quoted in a telecommuting article published by IT Radix, an online IT support company. In the article, Gerber is featured for his knowledge and expertise in organizing effective telecommunication systems for OSI employees.

As a virtual accounting department, OSI efficiently coordinates all bookkeeping and accounting needs for its clients, enabling them to focus on activities that will generate revenue instead of worrying about daily accounting issues. By assigning a dedicated team of professionals to each client, including a virtual accountant, bookkeeper and controller, OSI ensures that its clients receive personalized service in a timely fashion. Additionally, by implementing high standards of quality controls, OSI's professional team partners with its clients to manage everything from daily bank balances, periodic financial reporting as well as sales tax issues. OSI currently represents clients with net worth ranging from $1 to $25 million across a wide scope of industries.

"It was wonderful to be able to share OSI's telecommuting success with other firms through the IT Radix article. Telecommuting is an effective tool that when used properly can help businesses retain the most qualified team of professionals, allowing them to achieve phenomenal growth," says Bill Gerber, Managing Member of OSI Business Services (<http://www.osibusinessservices.com>).

In the IT Radix article, Gerber stresses that for any telecommuting program to be successful, business owners must hire responsible employees with good time management skills. He also emphasizes that the only way for owners to determine if they have hired dependable employees is to not be afraid to give them responsibility. In addition to his tips for successful telecommuting, Gerber also discusses why he firmly believes telecommuting is an effective workplace tool. He states that OSI employees enjoy the luxury of working from home, while still earning a competitive salary. As a result, the firm employs a highly motivated workforce, making telecommuting a win-win for all parties involved.

Additionally, because OSI employs a telecommuting workforce, the firm is able to hand select the most qualified and experienced professionals from across the country. Since all work is completed electronically, OSI is a paperless work environment, which reduces operating costs and also helps preserve natural resources.

"At OSI we are committed to providing our clients with the highest level of service. Telecommuting makes this possible by allowing us to employ a versatile, highly skilled team of professionals ready to manage every accounting and bookkeeping need that may arise," says Gerber.
